...nial style, but with a decidedly modern twist. "Guests will find that rooms, the entire Hotel, accommodate today's logical needs," says Stauss. "And, the new Hotel, literally and functionally, will be an abundance of living green in the public areas because they have great air quality and connect us with the outdoors. Controls for room lighting and temperature are designed for optimal efficiency and guest comfort."

...room closets have space for your wardrobe, and, in some suites, the dressing room has its own discreet door so that cleaning staff can put away laundry without disturbing guests. The Hotel will offer many options for connecting rooms for growing families and other larger groups stay together at Four Seasons.

Look and Feel of the New Hotel at Park Lane
The new Hotel at Park Lane, designed by architect Pierre-Yves Rochon, has a warm and sophisticated, clean, and modern feel with elements from different eras.

...most covered room in the Hotel may be the Garden Suite, with its large furnished open terrace and Hyde Park views.

Four Seasons Resort Vail Village
The new Four Seasons Resort Vail is perfectly positioned for skiers and snowboarders to enjoy a day on the slopes, then revel in what Vail is known for – its amazing après-ski lifestyle. Effortless return of skis and boots to the Resort's Ski Concierge after a day of fresh powder means that guests can enjoy the bustling après-ski scene in the Village and return to the Resort at their leisure. Plus, with two new special introductory winter packages – Ski Free and Stay Longer, guests have an added incentive to book their winter vacation with Four Seasons Resort Vail.

Ski Concierge
The Ski Concierge is a separate building at the base of the Vista Bahn chairlift, just a short walk on a heated pathway from Four Seasons Resort Vail. The three-story tall building features a full-service concierge team for guests of Four Seasons, available for ski rental needs and assistance with boots, skis, maps, ski conditions, weather forecasts, and more. The new building also features a ski storage area and a ski valet service.

...tunes based on the day's conditions and the skier's preference. Before hitting the slopes, guests can enjoy complimentary fresh-baked muffins and hot chocolate, tea or coffee.

"One really benefits from the short walk to the Ski Concierge, which helps get the blood pumping and gives the body a warm-up prior to the day's skiing," notes Hans Willmann, General Manager of Four Seasons Resort Vail. "Plus, it's so nice and convenient to be able to return the gear when you're done, and be right in the Village, ready to enjoy dinner or an après-ski cordial."

The Ski Concierge is just 840 steps from the Resort, and, adds Willmann, "It's nice to enjoy some hot tea or cocoa before heading up the lift, and to make sure the body is fully prepared for the exercise on the slopes."

Winter Packages
To help guests experience the inaugural winter season at Four Seasons Resort Vail, the Resort is offering two special introductory packages. Guests who book a winter stay longer package, guests will receive a complimentary fifth night with every four consecutive paid nights, and two 50-minute massages per stay.

Signature Winter Beverages and Hearty Mountain Fare
For hot-chocolate lovers, Four Seasons at Resort Vail serves up a special blend, it is known as "Haut Chocolat," served warm exclusively in the Fireside Lounge. Executive Chef Jason Harrison offers his decadent hot cocoa recipe with homemade tasty chocolate marshmallows. Sipping the hot chocolate is a tasteful experience not soon forgotten – presented with the light, fluffy marshmallows on a silver tray, the hot chocolate is served and churned tableside out of a traditional French hot-chocolate pot, allowing guests to enjoy the drink at their own pace. A server pours the rich cocoa over a large cup topped with dark chocolate lattice, melting the treat into the cup. For those who like it a little less rich, cream is served on the side. In addition to the "Haut Chocolat" specialty, traditional hot cocoa and mulled apple cider are also available.

Fracking Hurts

Water covers over 70% of the Earth's surface and is a very important resource for people and the environment. Water pollution can affect our drinking water, rivers, lakes and oceans all over the world. This consequently harms human health and the natural environment. One of the most pressing issues regarding water pollution today is hydraulic fracturing, also known as 'fracking'. Fracking is mainly used as a method of drilling into rock to extract natural gasses. Unfortunately, this process causes high levels of water pollution. Each well that is opened by fracturing uses roughly four million gallons of water in the process of digging. Much of that water that is used to help in the fracking process is sent back into the environment polluted with many hazardous chemicals such as hydrochloric acid, sulfur, and ethanol. All of this polluted water is making its way into the homes of many peoples drinking water, this can prove very dangerous to not only the enviornment, but to yourself. Help yourself and the enviornment at the same time. Step up and stand against fracking.
