

Powerful Dog Training TIPS

5 Informative Dog Training Articles

Compiled by: Ricardo Henry

Click Here To Solve Your Dog's Behavior Problems

Article #1

Dog Training Tips - Simple Ideas

By Lindsey Jenkins

One of the greatest joys in life is to get a new dog. Whether you're single, married, or have a large family, there's nothing quite like having man's best friend in the home. The joy can become a bit of a nightmare for some though, as dogs like to be wild at times and do whatever they want whenever they want. It's natural for them to just want to do anything without having to be reprimanded, but that doesn't necessarily bode well for the home. That's why it's important to train your dog as soon as you get them, and preferably starting as puppies. Without proper training, you will have a nuisance on your hands that can really cause havoc. Consider some simple dog training tips below in your quest moving forward.

The Treat System - Training a dog is not so complicated; if you follow a stern treat system. When your new plan does something that you want them to do, reward them with a small treat. Whether it's sitting, barking, or fetching, make sure that they are rewarded for what they do best and withhold the treat if they don't obey your command.

Daily Fun - Make sure that the training process is done for a couple hours a day, and that a steady amount of treats are given. Do not try to overwork your pet and don't get frustrated if it doesn't all come together on your first day. Take time and learn certain behaviors together, with a stern command and a treat in hand in case something good develops. Remember, this will take time to be patient and calm but stern in your efforts.

Professional Help - If you aren't sure that you're up to the task alone, you could always call in a professional that will show you how to be a leader for your pet. Some people aren't too keen on training and instead call a service to train dogs. This can be a helpful option in many ways, so make sure that you explore this option as something that can be a viable solution if you're not able to accomplish some of the tasks that you want to do in regards to your new puppy. If this is not a good fit, you could always get a book or a DVD series to assist you with some of the issues that you might be having. Look around your community to see if anyone can assist you, and you'll be surprised how easy training can become.

If you are finding the process of implementing certain dog training tips, then it's important to look for a professional to help you, or look into purchasing a book. There are many books and ideas on the topic, you just have to figure out what goals you have and then work towards meeting them with milestones. Don't give up, this will take time to develop, as many dogs don't just naturally lean towards being obedient. However, all pets can be trained to listen and obey their masters, so you'll be glad when they start to be well behaved friends. If you remember nothing else, remember to be patient, your new friend will need time to learn and understand what is happening, but it will be great when it all comes together.

Are you looking for more information regarding Dog Training Tips? Visit <http://pruittsyorkiepuppiesforsale.com/pruitt-yorkies-ebook-store/> today!

Article Source: http://EzineArticles.com/?expert=Lindsey_Jenkins

Article Source: <http://EzineArticles.com/7435487>

Article #2

Dog Training Tips - The Basics

By Danny Loiseau

How To Raise A Well Behaved Dog

If your goal is to have a family pet that will go from cute puppy to well behaved adult dog, then you have to employ proper training techniques. Dogs are a lot like children in that they need rules to abide by, whilst also learning to respect authority. It's easy to dote on those little bundles of puppy fur, only to be crushed when you find them chewing up the furniture and using the living space as their own personal toilet. All puppies have an innate knack for seeking out trouble, but if you take the time to train your little one, then those accidents will be few and far between. What follows are some dog training basics that will help you raise a well behaved dog, which will in turn lead to a great relationship.

Setting the Rules

The first step in any dog training regiment is the establishment of household rules, all of which should be laid out from day 1. For example, if you don't fancy the idea of your Golden Retriever sleeping on your bed, don't allow him to do it when he is a puppy, no matter how cute the idea seems. Make no exceptions to the rule and don't allow it to happen even a single time. The training process should start early, and when it does, make sure that every member of the household is aware of the rules and make sure that they adhere to them.

Staying Consistent

Its one thing to set the ground rules, but quite another to enforce them. This requires consistency in enforcement, with a reprimand and proper behavior shown every time your puppy steps out of line. That consistency has to apply to everything the puppy does, whether it is chewing on furniture, going potty indoors, or jumping up on people when they enter the home. It's not uncommon to become frustrated during the process, but you have to remember that puppies will make mistakes, but if you are always ready with a sharp "NO!" and a lesson on how to do things properly, your little bundle of fur will soon get it right. Stay consistent, stay patient, and you will see positive results.

Rewarding Good Behavior

Good behavior should always be recognized and rewarded, so be sure to do just that when your puppy does something right. Positive reinforcement is a far more effective training method than doling out punishment, with simple dog treats often enough when you first start out. Once he starts getting things right on a regular basis, you can then switch from treats to vocal praise and loving attention, although the occasional dog biscuit is still nice too. Using this sort of positive reinforcement will absolutely make the training go more quickly and will actually help in the bonding process too.

People often make the mistake of thinking of dog training as a long, laborious process, but it's actually pretty straightforward if you follow the tips mentioned above. Sure it will take a little bit of time and effort at the start, but the rewards are well worth the work you put in with your puppy.

For more information on dog training visit Dog and Master

(c) Copyright - Danny Loiseau All rights reserved Worldwide

Article Source: http://EzineArticles.com/?expert=Danny_Loiseau

Article Source: <http://EzineArticles.com/7400484>

Article #3

Top 5 Dog Training Tips

By Michael Brapopol

Your approach to dog training has a big impact on the actual training results that you will get. As long as you have the right mindset about dog training, you can be sure that your puppy will grow into a well-mannered dog that you can be proud of. Aside from having the right mindset, you would also do well to follow the most useful tips and tricks of dog training. Here are the top five dog training tips that will help you mould your dog into a positive addition to your family.

1. Show your dog that you are the pack leader.

Dogs are pack animals and naturally look to their pack leader for guidance. Therefore, you will have to establish your role as pack leader in order to gain control over your dog's behaviour. Pack leaders normally control the food supply, so a good way to establish leadership would be to always feed your dog only AFTER you have eaten. You should also set a feeding schedule and stick to it.

2. Use positive reinforcement.

Dogs respond best to positive reinforcement. One of the best ways to ensure success in dog training is to reward good behaviour and ignore unwanted behaviour. This will encourage your dog to repeat those behaviours that earn him praises and treats, and refrain from exhibiting behaviours that get him nothing in return. Be careful not to use punishment in training your dog, as this will only alienate him and make him regard you as an adversary. Rewards and positive reinforcement not only help ensure success in dog training, but also helps strengthen your bond with your dog.

3. Set realistic goals.

You can't ensure the success of your training unless you have a concrete goal to start with. Of course, you will have to keep your goals realistic; otherwise, you will just be setting yourself up for failure. For example, it is okay to expect your dog to master the "sit" command in two to three days, but you can't expect him to jump through hoops within the same timeframe.

4. Learn proper timing.

Proper timing can spell the difference between success and failure, where dog training is concerned. When you see your dog sniffing and circling around, immediately give a firm NO and then lead him to the designated elimination area. If you wait until he has done his business before scolding him, he won't understand that he is not supposed to make a mess inside the house. In the same way, you should praise your dog or give him a treat the very moment he exhibits a good behaviour. This will make him understand that he has just done something that pleases you.

5. Be patient and consistent.

Stay calm even when your dog makes mistakes. Yelling and showing impatience will get you nowhere. Give your dog enough time to learn each command, and always use the same words and hand signals when you give these commands. Consistency and patience are the keys to successful dog training.

Point your browser this way - and get Home Dog Training Advice [<http://www.homedogtrainingadvice.com/home-dog-training/>] from the nets leading niche Dog Advice Site. Read Our Guide To Stopping Puppy Aggression [<http://www.homedogtrainingadvice.com/puppy-aggression-and-how-to-stop-it/>] and other solutions to all major Dog behavioral problems.

Article Source: http://EzineArticles.com/?expert=Michael_Brapopol

Article Source: <http://EzineArticles.com/5546811>

Article #4

3 Fast Ways For Stopping Dog Barking by Tom Brady

Does your dog bark constantly? It can be a real nuisance if you can't get him to stop. So what options do you have to stop a dog from barking?

Well, there are the age old ideas. Dog obedience training is one option that will stop the barking and transform your pet into an easy-to-love companion. Exercise for your dog can sometimes be enough to stop that barking.

He may have heard or smelled something and wants to let you know. If you think that's why he's barking, petting him may work in stopping a dog from barking. If the barking keeps up, have your dog sit or lay down. If that stops the barking, reinforce the good behavior with goodies or affection.

It makes sense that if your dog is eating a snack he can't bark at the same time. Most dogs would rather eat than bark for sure! All your dog's attention is now on the new squeaky toy you gave him!

If you still are not successful stopping a dog from barking, you might want to use a bark control collar. Many of these work by using sound so that the desired behavior, (in this case stopping barking), can be associated with the sound. And then there are shock collars, too, but some people worry if they actually hurt the dog.

The bark remedy differs with each type of collar, and so does the detection. Both types of collars have good and bad points. Both types of collars can be activated by mistake under the right circumstances, which could confuse your dog. So now they make dual collars that use both types of detection and even have protection against false activation.

No matter what you do in stopping a dog from barking, if you are committed to it you can do it and you and your dog will both be happy.

About the Author

Get the FREE Report: Stopping a Dog From Barking in 7 Easy Steps. Get it here: <http://stoppingadogfrombarking.com>

Article #5

Stop Dog Jumping on You Excessively by Matthew Walker

You may observe that while you come through the front door of your house, your pet dog likes to quake his/ her tail and leap on you. Have you ever try to feel or investigate why your dog likes to do so? He's got pent-up energy that he releases like a spring when he pounces on you. Though, your favorite dog has natural and overexcited greeting manner. There are some footmarks will assist you to prevent dog jumping on you and those are in below:

Step 1 - Teaching your dog how to sit

At first, you have to make a realization to your dog that leaping is not a suitable action. Avert from your pet dog or push out your hip towards him/her so that the dog became chunk at the time of leap on you. Say 'STOP and OFF loudly and confidently and these commands state that you are not happy with him. When your pooch is not getting the desired response from you, he'll actively want to know how to win back your affections.

Click here to find out how to stop dog jumping
[<http://www.stoppingdogproblems.com/stop-dog-jumping-on-furniture/>] on your stuff.

Train your dog to sit right, but it's when you will watch that dog's all mitts are on the floor as well as not leaping on you. Do again the command 'SIT' audibly and Press your dog's rump firmly and repeat the word 'SIT'.If you apply this ('SIT') command quietly and firmly your pet dog will understand that what would like to indicate. Present a doggie biscuit or bone if the dog snoopyour instruction.

Step 2 - Keep it steady

You must be steady in your own actions if your dog is going to learn to stop jumping on you. Train your dog submissively by saying 'SIT' and 'STOP' in the training program. Remind your family that it's everyone's obligation to train the family pet properly. Don't encourage undesirable behavior in your dog. Always use the command 'SIT' including 'STOP' and 'OFF' but use these words properly when your pet attempts to leap on you to get affections.if you want to change your disobedient pet into an obedient dog, just provide dependable and commendable training.

Click here stop dog jumping to find out further on how to stop dog jumping on you excessively.

Step 3 - Take no notice of your dog

If you try to push away your dog as he pounces on you, your pet will imagine you like this actions and continue to jump about. Your dog will assume that you are playing with him and become even more lively. Turn away as well as pay no attention to your pet dog and stay quite for only some minutes while you come through the front door of your house. Ignoring your dog gives him the sign that you're not happy with him. Repeat the command 'STAY'. He'll begin to calm down and slowly stop being excitable.

Step 4 - Treat and praise your dog

Praising your dog is the best way to show that you accept his actions and always support your pet's good behavior with praise. Sounds like 'GOOD BOY' or 'GOOD GIRL' has great affections for your pet. Praising your dog by saying 'GOOD DOG', give treats repeatedly or throw a bone with commendable smile.

If you follow these 4 steps continuously you can offer proper training to your dog to prevent jumping on you. With consistent training, your beloved pet will halt its undesirable actions and follow your commands to the letter. Like as earlier than now your dog doesn't leap on you and your dog is very obedient as well.

I hope this article taught you how to stop your dog from jumping on you and the commands to use. I included a review of the product Secrets Dog Training, which gives you detailed explanation on how to stop dog behavior problems and to teach your dog sit, fetch, wait, and many more.

About the Author

Mathew Walker is a professional dog trainer who help dogs become obedient and teach dogs to learn new tricks. His website is Stopping dog problems

Click Here For More Dog Training Information