

Neha Nirmal

There is a question to all cs professionals especially for THOSE WHO ARE IN PRACTISE, some of my friends are undergoing training under a PCS firm, and there they are doing work like servants as in preparing and serving tea to the clients of their boss, their boss say to clean their desk , pc themselves. And in the past , they shifted their office , in which one of the trainee helped to shift all the furnitures, computers etc . If their is a male trainee in your office then will he do all this work instead of learning work in his training period . and FEMALE TRAINEE making tea , serving lunch , cleaning their table .. are THESE THINGS JUSTIFIABLE for the Upcoming CS who are gonna step out in corporate world.And the last and the foremost thing,stipend given to them is just 2500 Rs. and some of them are NOT PAID EVEN A SINGLE PENNY in their initial period (like 2-3months is their initial period) . MY question is to all the CS is this FAIr , this is how professionals treat their trainees ???

Sandeep Garg Trainee shud say no. Doing work in this hell like condition will not tke u anyway so its better to sit idle at home. Rather thn doing work under these types of people who treat u just servant not cs. And make their complaint in institute

Rajeev Sharma I personally, disagree with the above mentioned situation. I have also been trainee, and many other gals trainee was there but not even for a single time any of the trainee had been called for such a stupid work in the whole of 15 mnths & also stipened hav been made on time for all the months. but the above mentioned words are true then its really disgusting.

Rajeev Sharma @rohan: I agree there may b this kind of bizarre situation, and there is no scarcity of person with sick mentality. but this type of problems cant be sort out, its also the truth. training is a situation where u cant be demanding, BEGGARS ARE NOT CHOOSERS. they will have to face any how, if n only if this kind of situation is there. and some how it can be tackled on personal level.

Mehul Baxi at intial stage of training we are not considered as cs but a servant only and even i disagree with above and if any one doing it better leave that firm and join some where and elso and put the money issue behind just learn for what u have join with a good firm or a company and to earn respect sometime we have to do what our boss says as its our starting period never say no to anything but do that work in limit , know your self respect and focus on assignments.

Rajeev Sharma Neha Nirmal:- neha, if there is really such situation being faced by someone, you can make complain to ICSI, if not then you will have to tackle it by your self, its just how smart you are? just have healthy relations wid you mentor. you know wot, wen the new student dont get training that time they make a no. of unwanted/ silly promises to get training but later on these silly promises become the collar bone. no more bendings are required at the time of getting training.

Sushil Kumar I think if you have talent, then you can learn a lot. A PCS what looks is how capable you are. When you have knowledge and calibre to learn then A PCS will definitely give the work in which you can surpass. Last but not the least you should always be optimistic and have faith in god rather than complaining. Whatever task we are assigned we should do that dedicately. It is true that we have struggle a lot during initial period right from training and 2-3 years after getting membership. I think we should do always good thing and ask God whatever we want. God will always listen to us instead of complaining.
