Psychadelic, groove-thick and addictive, Glasgow's Bacchus Baracus are packing the bus and getting ready to hit the road.

2013 was a great year for the stoner-metal four-piece, with the release of their debut full-length Tales Of Worries, Woes And Whatever – now receiving consistent club play in Scotland.

They have also laid claim to a slew of high-grade support slots including Jucifer, Kylesa, Gentlemen's Pistols, The Rotted Orange Goblin, Eyehategod and Pentagram.

It seems this trip is only just beginning, as they are currently set-up to share stages with Conan and Karma To Burn, and have sights set on France, Portugal and Spain this year, working in conjunction with Mother Fuzzer Booking.

Re-invigorated with fresh blood in the form of new bassist Steg, and ready to take audiences to another level of consciousness, Bacchus Baracus can be booked for European dates (June 5th – 19th) by emailing the booking agent at:

motherfuzzerbookina@gmail.com or by contacting the band directly at their own
