Jenna Jameson's 25 Good Reasons Why No One Would Ever Want to Become a Porn Star
<http://antipornographyactivist.wordpress.com/2007/07/16/jenna-jamesons-twenty-five-good-reasons-why-no-one-would-ever-want-to-become-a-porn-star/>

>After the AVN Awards and all the mainstream exposure, everyone wanted to interview me, even people who had passed on the offer before. One of them was Al Goldstein, the publisher of Screw magazine, who was writing for Penthouse at the time. Joy set up something after the awards show, and Goldstein came by to introduce himself. He's an obese, greasy, slovenly man, and was very touchy-feely with both of us. When he discussed the interview, he seemed to be dropping hints about going on a date or getting sexual favors from me in exchange for the article. He didn't say it explicitly, but it's the feeling Joy and I got.... Goldstein never forgave us for canceling the interview. And so I made my first enemy in the business. He published a screed against Joy and me on the front page of Screw, accusing us of practically every offense imaginable – and a few that were unimaginable. He even attacked my family.

look man the only way you can really make a difference is get in a position of power. the way you do that is dedication.

start podcats, local journalism, try to get a job somewhere shit if you really wanna go for it, change your last name to a jewish name so you are more liekly to be hired somewhere of power. if you really want to get the word out, you are going to have to put in time, effort, and strategy.
