The screenshot displays the FileJam web interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with 'filejam' logo, 'Main', and a breadcrumb trail: 'Main > Folder 1 > Folder 2 > Folder 3 has a much longer name than the rest >'. Below this is a toolbar with icons for Password, Get Link, Download, Share, Wallpaper, Merge Files, social media (Twitter, Facebook, Google+), and Delete. A secondary toolbar contains 'Rename', 'Upload', and 'New folder' buttons, along with a search bar. The main content area shows a list of files. The first row is highlighted in blue, indicating it's selected. The other three rows are grey. Each row contains a file icon (a blue square with 'psd'), a long filename, a size of 10mb, a modification time of 5 days ago, and an expiration date of 12/03/14. Below the file list, there's a download progress bar. It shows four rows, each with a file icon, the same long filename, a size of 10mb, and a progress indicator. The first row has a yellow progress bar at 55%, while the other three have green checkmarks, indicating 100% completion. The progress bar also shows 'Remaining' time and 'Speed' (30mb/s) for each row.
