

Join High Heel Golfer for Leadership Development

'High Heel Golfer' is an organisation that organizes various golf training courses and activities that can enhance the leadership quality of women and also teach them to get self-independent by using golf as a means of betterment of 'business skills'. Women who are a part of these leadership training activities organised by them learn how to use their skills for both personal and professional benefits. 'Personal enhancement and personality development' are the two basic aspects of the training done here.

Our focus resides on:

- The making of the successful business dealings through detailed access to the surrounding environment.
- Helping the women to 'come out of their comfort zone' and enjoy their life in their own individualistic way.
- Building up the self-confidence of the trainees among themselves through motivation and skilled knowledge that might help them to make their unique identity among the crowd.
- 'Insight on how to read others'.
- Making a lot of fun and enjoyments.

We realize this fact that one gets a higher respect in the business world if he knows to play golf. Thus, women who can play it can certainly expect a great managerial position in the company she works for.

We organise a certain set of activity schedules in our training process. These includes the 'high heel golfer clinic programs, happy hours and the plug and play events'.in these, the golf happy hours San Diego is considered the most exciting.

The schedule goes like:

- At your arrival, you are being handed with a 'glass of wine'.
- Next, you get to freely interact with the other participating women for over half an hour.
- This is followed by a 'PGA certified golf lesson' for a duration of one hour.
- Next, the women get through a business discussion session on golf.
- Also, women get to 'connect and follow-up' through various social networking websites.
- The happy hours finally ends with a session of unlimited fun for 2.5 hours.

Apart from the training and the recreational activities, the participants are given a chance to be a part of the various golf clubs in their firm, if anyone desires for so. Realizing the fact that many find the sport of golf to be 'little intimidating', our firm professionals ensure you complete support and help while the training goes on that might help you to gain up confidence and inner strength to win over all your discomforts. Thus, you are assured a good reputation in your business career once you choose to be a part of us.