Teaching Artist:

Joy McKee

Joy McKee has been with the Aiken Center for the Arts for two years and has enjoyed being a private art teacher for over fifteen years. She earned her bachelor of arts in history and English from Barton College and is a certified K-12 Art Educator. Joy's passion for teaching is fueled by the satisfaction she finds in exposing students to the arts. She loves their energy and interest in new projects and challenges.

Aiken Center for the Arts 2014 Fall Class Offerings

The Aiken Center for the Arts offers an excellent selection of fun and enriching classes in many of the arts disciplines. Taught by experienced art professionals, and designed to provide individual attention and feedback, our classes are sure to educate and inspire artists of all ages. Classes run consecutively on the same day each week. Workshops are offered once per session. All supplies are included unless otherwise noted in the class description. Classes this fall are broken down into two sessions:

Fall Session 1 September 8 - October 19

Fall Session 2 October 20 - November 30

*Please note: Classes will not be held November 26, 27, or 28.
These will be scheduled for the following week, December 3, 4, and 5.*

New for Fall!

Keep an eye out for exciting changes this fall at the Aiken Center for the Arts! In addition to seasoned favorites, we have a range of new programs available! We are now offering a blend of visual and performing arts, including youth and adult African and Latin dance classes!

Also look for our new selection of children's programming, including several class and workshops that allow your little one to learn while you take a class at the same time!

Check out our new selection of workshops, including programs for kids and teens! Workshops are scheduled every Saturday this fall, so you're sure to find something you and your family will love!
