

The beginning of the STM news channel.....

As the manufacturing industry becomes one of the toughest industries in Australia we can't help but think what is install for the future of our beloved industry and in particular the lubrication dispensing equipment market. It all began in 1952 when STM Australia Pty Ltd produced its very first screw thread. The company started with one goal in mind to supply and manufacture the highest quality products at an affordable price, whilst providing elite friendly customer service. STM Australia started off with only two employees Vincent and his wife Constance, who then went on to hire talented engineers to develop innovative new products which included grease guns, oil and fuel transfer equipment, hand pumps, rotary pumps etc. Till this day the original STM values are still upheld; STM constantly prides itself on providing friendly and valuable customer service, whereby our customers and the general public feel that they can ask just about anything and we will do our best to find the answer and provide an A Grade solution.

The first STM Australia head office, located in Glen Iris Victoria.

Not only does STM specialize in lubrication dispensing equipment, it is also one of the largest suppliers of Diemould Components within Australia and competes on a global scale.

STM has grown immensely over the past 60 years and employs staff right across Australia and New Zealand. Our products are now accompanying some of Australia's largest companies including Penrite Oils whereby the founder of STM and Penrite had become best friends and till this day still remain one of our much loved customers. Since then STM have gone on to establish relationships with Burson Auto Parts, Supercheap Auto, Auto One, Autobarn and Auto Pro. Although one critical factor that cannot be overlooked is our Australian local business's that till this day remain loyal customers of STM Australia, including our beloved farmers, local automotive workshops and our growing Industrial and oil sector.

This new found channel will give you access to product reviews, product maintenance and how to use product videos. We will also do our best to provide readers with the latest industry news and keep you up to date on any new products that are ready to hit the STM shelves.

The purpose of this channel is to add that little bit of extra attention to our much loved customers that STM Australia always strives to achieve and, to provide as much information to our customers and the general public on our industry and products.

You can have your say and send through any feedback to stmnews@stm.net.au whereby your questions will be answered and any request will be attended to.

We have some great articles coming up this month so be sure to regularly check the STM news page on a regular basis.