

Become lucky with diamond purchased from a Chicago

In a lucky woman's life there will occasions that seem like the fairy tale has come true. One such day is when the man she loves proposes and offers her a diamond engagement ring as a token of his love. A Henri Daussi diamond purchased from a Chicago area Albert's Jewelers at this moment will take her breath away. These Gemological Institute of America (GIA) certified diamonds are cut with the experience stemming from a European tradition of fine stones. Antwerp, Belgium is the diamond capital of Europe. It was there, 60 years ago, that Henri Daussi Loois learned the art of diamond cutting from his father. His father had learned the business from his own father. Diamonds are a tradition in the Henri Daussi family. That business, now headquartered in New York, is still family owned and these diamonds are only available at authorized retailers in the United States and Canada – stores like Albert's Jewelers which has been serving Chicago since 1904 with convenient locations in Schererville and Merrillville.

These Henri Daussi exquisitely cut diamond rings have been mentioned on the pages of magazines such as "Martha Stewart Weddings", "Engagement 101 Magazine" and "Brides". The sparkle of a finely cut engagement ring may only be reflection of the sparkle in the eyes of the receiver as she joyously accepts the invitation but that wedding set is expected to sparkle and be worn 24/7 for a lifetime. Then, continuing on in the same tradition as the Henri Daussi family business, these are diamonds destined to become heirlooms. It's one of the most important purchases that you'll make. The diamond you give your future bride today will be gifted down through generations and treasured. The trained staff at Albert's Jewelers, only about 30 minutes from downtown Chicago, know that and will be happy to help you chose the perfect ring set.

Most of us know a little bit about carat weight but did you know diamonds are also graded on cut, color and clarity? These are the four c's of diamond quality. An expertly cut diamond, like those available from Henri Daussi Chicago, will reflect light as only a diamond is able. The unique, brilliant light refraction of a high quality diamond is unchallenged by any other gem or manmade material. Formed under immense pressure, the higher the diamond clarity, which is an absence of inclusions and blemishes, the more "flawless" the diamond. Color varies on a scale of D to Z from colorless to light. These different characteristics have a great effect on price regardless of carat weight.
