

Analyst, Global Internet & Technology Equities Research (m/w) for HitFox Group

HitFox is a global company builder focused on AdTech, Big Data, and FinTech founded in 2011. Today over 400 professionals from 45 nationalities are shaping emerging digital industries from Berlin and the group's international offices. Apply to HitFox if you enjoy working with great minds and doers and want to see your ideas turn into reality. In 2014, HitFox was awarded the renowned EY Entrepreneur of the Year Award.

Your role:

- You identify and analyze financial information, strategic issues and trends that effect companies, industries and markets on a regional and global scale
- You develop financial models to forecast growth and profitability opportunities for publicly traded stocks in the global internet and technology industry
- You perform valuation analyses such as discounted cash flow, dividend discount models and other valuation calculations
- You prepare investment proposals and work closely with our portfolio managers to implement the optimal investment strategy
- You maintain and ensure accuracy of financial models, analyses and documentation

Your profile:

- You have demonstrated work experience in the finance industry, optimally within equities/securities research, portfolio management or investment banking
- Degree with a specialisation in the field of finance, accounting or economics
- You are a native German speaker and fluent in English
- You are familiar with financial databases
- You keep up to date with the internet industries and trends in the digital space
- You have excellent quantitative, analytical and structuring skills
- You are able to work and communicate in a fast paced international environment
- Our applicants are usually in the top 10-20% of their academic peer group

What do we offer?

- You work directly with the lead portfolio managers and have a direct impact on the investment process
- You have the chance to experience the initiation and launch of a sector-focused investment fund
- First-hand industry insights through FinLeap's and HitFox' sector experts with a successful company-building and investment track record in the internet and technology space
- You get access to an outstanding network of finance and FinTech entrepreneurs in Berlin's startup scene
- Work within an international team that is performance-driven and fun to work with
- Numerous company events and socialising activities

Interested? Then submit your CV along with relevant working and university documents online here:

<https://hire.jobvite.com/j?cj=oEMt1fwE&s=Other>.