

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA

MONROE

December 21, 2014

Re: Recommendation, Larra Conville

I am pleased to offer my recommendation of Ms. Conville. I first met Larra in January 2011 when I had the privilege of being her art professor in a beginning basic design course. During the extended hours of studio art classes there is an opportunity to observe and study people. She gained my attention and respect from the outset and as her major professor and advisor in graphic design I remained in continuous contact until her recent graduation with the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in December 2014.

She has been one of my most dependable and consistent graphic design students. She always attempted to find a new way to approach a design task to reach a creative and successful conclusion. Her artworks can be quite precise and at the same time retain innovative and imaginative vibrancy. She is quite confident and decisive in her approach to design form, yet always cooperative and supportive in collaborative team situations.

Larra is a self-starter with an admirable work ethic. She never hesitates to seek and accept new challenges such as freelance opportunities or applying her expertise to on-campus requests. She is eager to accept criticism and integrate every experience into improved output. Extra-curricular activity and successful involvement in multiple internships are further testament to her passion and commitment as a student and artist. She has successfully participated in many exhibition opportunities on and off campus.

Larra has many friends, is popular, and well liked by all who know her. As a student she very successfully balanced her home life, work experiences, and regular studies.

In summary, Ms. Conville is a quick, bright, receptive, dependable, and personable communicator with a unique blend of charismatic charm, humility, humor and insight. I consider her to be a very fine young woman of integrity and high character. She is most worthy of your consideration and I know that she would be an asset to any endeavor.

If I can be of further assistance please contact me.

Sincerely,

Brian R. Fassett, Professor

fassett@ulm.edu