

ETHNIC & INTERCULTURAL
SERVICES

ENGAGE EM
EXPLORE EMPOWER IPOWER

InterCultural Focus

What does the program do?

The Intercultural Facilitator Program is a student-facilitated program designed to help students learn about identity-based social inequalities and social justice. The program offers members of the LMU community an opportunity to engage in dialogues about important social divides concerning race, gender, sexual orientation, religion and class in an increasingly diverse world. The program promotes the importance of engaging in these critical conversations, which lead to an authentic understanding of self, an honest and inclusive approach to transformative student development all while by providing simple but comprehensive ways to engage and inspire the community.

Recognition/Awards:

Excellence Award: Bronze Certificate, National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, (January 2016).

Community Impact Award, Jesuit Association of Student Personnel Administrators (August 2015).

Ignatian Medal for Outstanding Commitment to Diversity and Social Justice, Jesuit Association of Student Personnel. (March 2014).

University Program of the Year, Loyola Marymount University, (April 2014)

The Community Impact Award, Jesuit Association of Student Personnel Administrators (September 2013).

How to get involved?

- If you are a student who is interested in becoming an Intercultural Facilitator, APPLY NOW.
- If you are interested in requesting a facilitated workshop, please submit your online form least two weeks before the event. Your request will be scheduled within 24 hours, and you will receive an email confirmation.