What to do in L.A.?

Have you heard of several interesting attractions, but haven't found time to get around to them or know where they are? Or have you wanted to explore L.A., but have no clue where to start? Whether it be one or the other, here is a condensed list of fascinating things while in one of the most fast-paced cities in the world.

- Take a trip down Mulholland Drive: As one of the most famous scenic routes in the world, Mulholland runs for about 7.5 miles, while providing you with views of the Santa Monica Mountains, San Fernando Valley, and the Hollywood Hills. You may even catch a glimpse of Jack Nicholson or Leonardo DiCaprio as they are rumored to live in the area.

- Be on live TV: Living in L.A. provides you with ample opportunities to get your fifteen seconds of fame. Opt to be a part of a live studio audience on television or games shows for free and you may just wind up in front of the camera.

- Explore the Fashion District:

Downtown L.A. is known for its versatility and its fashion district is no different. Spanning 100 blocks filled with over 2,000 privately owned stores, the fashion district has a large selection of apparel, accessories, and footwear. You're bound to stumble across something worth picking up.

- Take a walk down Olvera Street: You can shop, listen to live mariachi music, watch folkloric dances, or experience authentic Mexican restaurants. There are also several tours you can take including the Old Plaza Church, Old Plaza Firehouse, and the Avila Adobe, the oldest house in L.A.
- First Fridays: Every first Friday of the month, you have the opportunity to support locally owned business on Abbot Kinney in Venice. Experience delicious food, great shopping, and take a peak at the work of local artists.
