

BRISTOL WITHOUT BREAKING THE BUDGET

If you are trying to keep your costs down to a minimum, here are a few useful ways to do this when you come to Una Mirada in September

TRAVEL

Bristol International airport is a hub airport for Easyjet and Ryanair as well as other low cost airlines. There is regular shuttle bus from the airport (£7 one way, £11 return) to take you into the city and once you are there you can walk to the venue, hostels & hotels, restaurants, shops and interesting places to visit.

However, if you are travelling with others it might be worth pre-booking a taxi (£20-£25 each way to the centre). With enough people it may be cheaper than the bus.

You can see if Easyjet fly direct to Bristol here <http://www.easyjet.com/en/routemap> and Ryanair destinations for Ryanair with September prices <https://www.ryanair.com/gb/en/cheap-flight-destinations>

Other UK airports where you might be able to get cheap flights are Luton, Stansted, Gatwick, Heathrow and Southampton. But you will then need to allow the time and cost of getting to Bristol.

Feel free to post in the group or event to see if anyone can help with lifts to and from these airports. You could always try Megabus, <http://uk.megabus.com/uk-destinations.aspx> which do cheap coach journeys within the UK and from Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, Netherlands and Spain. Eurolines <http://www.eurolines.co.uk/en> also do coach journeys from a wider list of countries.

EAT

Staying at a hostel or Airbnb will mean you can generally cook your own food and there are supermarkets nearby to buy supplies.

Here are a few suggestions of great value places to eat out but there are a huge variety of eateries in Bristol . *

Information correct at time of writing but please check opening hours etc before making a special trip*

Try St Nicholas Market for breakfast, brunch or lunch |

Monday to Saturday 9.30am to 5pm | 11 mins walk from venue | <http://www.stnicholasmarketbristol.co.uk/>

There are loads of great food stalls and cafes (Matina, Eat a Pitta, Al Bab Mansour/Moorish and Carribean Wrap are worth looking out for) and it's well worth a wander around, a great chilli sauce shop too. Nearby you can also find the Friday Food Market (Friday 10am to 4pm) on Wine Street, offering shoppers and visitors the opportunity to purchase some of the best local produce and street food available in the City.

Edna's Kitchen | Castle Park, Bristol (Generally 10am-5pm Monday-Sunday, but weather dependent so possibly later if the weather is good) | <http://www.ednas-kitchen.com/news.htm> | Homemade vegetarian Middle Eastern food.

Pieminister | <http://www.pieminister.co.uk/> | 24 Stokes Croft, Bristol, BS1 3PR | +44 117 942 3322 | 19 mins walk from venue

OPENING TIMES | Monday - Wednesday 11am – 10pm | Thursday - Saturday 10am – 11pm | Sunday 11am – 10pm |

Not the cheapest place to eat but a Bristol favourite worth a mention. Hearty fare to keep you dancing and you can look out for the pies in the supermarkets too. Like many places, the lunch menu is cheaper, so good value if you prefer your main meal at lunchtime. You can also look out in St Nicholas Market for these guys.

Sticks & Broth | Bridge House, 48-52 Baldwin Street BS1 1QQ | 12 mins walk from venue | <http://www.sticksnbroth.com/>
12 noon to 10:30 Monday to Saturday | 12 noon to 9:00 on Sundays.

A smattering of other Japanese dishes feature, but the rich tonkotsu ramen is the real reason to visit. Try the express menu for a cheap, but quality, lunch from £6.50 (Mon-Sat 12-4)

It's not always easy to locate a decent bowl of ramen on British shores – which is why Sticks & Broth is such a welcome find. The menu's list of classical dishes and modern fusion, alongside a great drink selection and popular lunchtime special, means you can experience some of the best British ramen for under a tenner.

Opened as a joint venture between the owners of Thai Kitchen (formerly of the Fish Market) and the fantastic Baowow, Sticks & Broth is a yakitori and ramen bar with 24-hour tonkotsu (pork bone) broth providing the base for a number of delicious dishes.

If you're visiting for lunch, then the £6.50 Tokyo Express menu, which allows you the option of ramen or donburi (rice bowl), is an affordable option. The house ramen is tremendous – smokey, rich brisket sits atop rocket, grilled corn, noodles and a soft boiled egg soaked in soy sauce, all surrounded by a beautifully subtle pork bone broth. The garlic cloves and crusher that sit on each table as a simple condiment mean you can apply some explosive flavour to a subtle dish.

A fine selection of beers, ales, wines and spirits are available should your budget permit. There's no sake as yet, but plans are afoot to add it to the list.

Maximillions | 45 Broad Street, Bristol BS1 2EP | Tel: +44 117 921 0515 | 13 mins walk from venue | Open Mon-Fri 8-5
Good for lunch only due to opening times but reported to be huge portions. "Supersized baps for those on a budget."

'GIANT BAPS!' screams the sign in the window of Maximillions, a deli that's hidden a little off the beaten track in Bristol's snoozy Broad Street. And it is a giant bap you'll get, as long as you can get to it – the queue has been known to reach the back of the shop and out again.

Simply pick your meat – usually a daily-changing selection of roast this or barbecue that, pick a white or brown bap, and then any five salads to go in it. And that really is any five salads – the definition of which has been stretched to include potato salad, pasta salad, sauerkraut, a vast variety of pickles, hard boiled eggs, onion bhajis, and more. The combinations are endless, the meat is always cooked to perfection, and the final concoction inevitably sits at six inches high and the circumference of a small dinner plate.

There is adequate seating upstairs (and if you choose to eat in, then you get even more salad to fill your plate), and fantastic coffee and tea. Best of all, baps come in at under a fiver – £3.70* each, in fact, regardless of fillings. Most won't be able to finish in one sitting, but you'll no doubt be tempted back to try again.
