World Gin Day

We love finding out that there are 'National Day's that we were unaware of and the next one coming up is World Gin Day on the 11th June.

To tie in with this, Fever Tree is opening up a World Gin Day pop-up bar on the South Bank next week with opening day being on the 9th June.

The new double decker container bar will also host rooftop masterclasses in addition to live music and the chance to check out new offerings from the brand.

Their tonics will be paired with a selection of premium gins such as Tanqueray, Sipsmith and Portobello.

There's even a masterclass on the Saturday where guests will learn about the history of the G&T as well as gaining some expert knowledge on how to make the perfect G&T.

So why not sip your drink on the riverside, soaking up the sun, enjoying spectacular views of London, whilst listening to live music? What more could you want?
