

1. We capture someone, bring them to the ritual site.

2. Then precede to cover victims head with burlap sack.

- Light a flare and throw it in the ground, form a circle around the victim with decent amount of space between each person.

3. Take the burlap sack off their head.

One person stands holding a red book in front of the victim who is kneeling,

Then precedes to read the following(Latin):

Disciplina ad victoriam.

Immortalitas est victoria belli adfert.

Chaos donum immortalitatis.

In commutationem, Chaos sanguinis requirit.

Sic, semper est sanguis effunditur.

Ergo Deus ad vitam aeternam bello.

Aeternam Deus Bellum Disciplina poscunt.

Chaos sanguinis, et semper: et tua sunt.

4. The person holding the book yells «Blood for the blood god!»

- Followed by “Skulls for the skull throne” shouted by everyone else.

5. The person in the circle standing behind the victim pulls out a knife and stabs the victim three times in the back.

- Then the person with the book yells “Ave, ave Deo in sanguine; Slaanesh!”
Meaning: All hail the blood god; Slaanesh (in latin).

6. Person behind the victim lights a fireplace that’s right behind the victim, then lights a torch which he holds in his hands.

- The person holding the torch then precedes to drag the lit fireplace into the inventory of the victim, then hits him with the torch once as to RP setting him on fire.

Guy with book then shouts "Gloria slaanesh Deus sanguinis dolore ac morte."
(meaning Glory to Slaanesh, god of blood, pain and death.)

We then wait for the victim to burn to death, while everyone in the circle raise their hands (F2).

7. After the ritual, the bezerkers chop up the victim and cook his meat over a fire.