What are the Mid Atlantic Academy Finals?

The Mid Atlantic Academy Finals takes its structure from Olympic style competition as well as equitation finals across the country. The riders have multiple days of competition with medals presented at the end of each day as well as over all medals. MAAF allows our academy riders to truly be a part of a finals experience as they pursue their riding careers.

Saturday is Equitation day. The morning features the qualifying class as well as a separate class where the riders will be asked to perform a pattern. They are judged separately in each of these classes - both classes will be tied and the riders will receive a ribbon. Saturday evening features the Equitation finals class. The riders must have shown in the MAAF classes in the morning to be eligible to show in this class. The finals class is also judged separately and tied with each rider receiving a ribbon, the top 10 will be called in reverse order. At the end of each of these classes the points will be tabulated. The points are based on the place the rider received and weighted by the number of riders in the class. The points will be posted following each session in the show office. Following the finals class the riders will be called back to the ring and overall awards will be presented - Gold, Silver, and Bronze based on the points the riders earned throughout the day.

Sunday is Showmanship Day. The morning features the qualifier and a separate pattern class. Each of these classes will be judged separately - both classes will be tied and riders will receive ribbons for each class. Sunday afternoon is the Showmanship finals. You must have showed in the morning classes to be eligible to participate in the Finals Class. This class is judged and tied separately; the top 10 will be called in reverse order. Following the class the riders will be called back in the ring and are awarded over all points awards for their performance in showmanship. The points are tabulated through out the day based on the ribbon they receive and number of riders in the class. These points are separate from the points they receive for Equitation the day before. The riders are then awarded medals Bronze, Silver, and Gold.

At the end of the both days the points from Equitation and Showmanship are combined to come up with the overall champion for the weekend. The over all champion is presented with a trophy to commemorate the occasion.

The Equitation Championship and the Showmanship Championship will both be calculated from all age groups giving a Gold, Silver, and Bronze in Walk Trot as well as a Gold, Silver, and Bronze for Walk, Trot, and Canter. The overall champion is calculated from the Walk, Trot and Walk, Trot, Canter division.
