

Most Common Windows 10 Activation Errors And Their Fixes

Have you installed Windows 10 and not able to explore complete Windows features? Are you receiving lots of errors after installation while going through activation? These are all due to activation errors for which you can dial a toll-free number to have a technical support for Windows activation error. With these technical supports team, you can have a complete assistance for errors. However, first, you must know about the possible errors that may happen while activation of Windows 10.

Genuine validation detected tempered Windows binaries

This appears as Error 0xC004C4AE and usually happens when you use third party app for display of language which is not supported by Windows.

To have fixes of this issue, you just need to restore your PC at an earlier stage. If you are still receiving error, then it may be that Windows copy is invalid, so here you need to purchase new one

Licensing services shows that Outlook only used to determine product key

This appears as Error 0xC004F061 which shows that previous Windows version has not been installed, before entering a product key to move toward Windows 10.

Here, you need to have an installation of Windows 7 or Windows 8.1 before proceeding for Windows 10.

Networking error occurred while activation of Windows copy

This error usually happens when your PC is not connected to internet or firewall may be obstructing Windows from completing activation.

Here, you need to make sure that you have stable internet connections and firewall in blocking your Windows from activation. If this does not resolve your problem, then you can dial a toll-free number to have an online Windows 10 technical support to have a solution without delay.

Product key has exceeded its limits of unblocking

This error appears when product key has been used on another PC or is being used on various PC. This appears with code Error 0xC004C008.

Here, you just need to buy a product key for every PC to have a proper activation of Windows. For buying a product key, just follow the steps shown as below:

- Go to Start> Settings> Update and security> Activation.
- Now, choose to go to Store and then go through online instructions.

These are some of the Windows activation errors. However, there are many others errors about which you can know with the help of a Windows technical support team. Here, you can also have a solution for those Window activation errors.