

South India Tour Offering Inner Peace and Healing to Soul and Body

During my course of journey I met different people with different religions. Actually our country gets a major place of tourist attraction among the many popular regions around the world. India is famous for its rich culture, sweet hospitality, traditions, and its cuisines. I always keep searching for a place which gives me inner peace, give me power to heal my soul and body. And South India is one of these places. There are so many things to do in south India like explore the beauty of backwaters and beaches, ayurveda delights, soul searching places, astonishing hill stations. Best time to visit in south india in between December and February.

I did the same thing in south India. I heard that south Indian culture have a different share in india and I looked it myself too. From their language to their food everything was diverse. It is very difficult to understand their language but their food quality is amazing. Street food seller gave me a chance to cook Idli and Rava dosa. They served the dishes on banana leaves. I was not good with cooking but it honored to be a part of it. Delectable sea food, pongal, delicious pickles, south Indian coffee, rice, delicious spicy curie, Hyderabadi Biryani, and coconut oil are the culinary wealth of south India.

Then I move forward to the one of the finest hill station of south india Coonor which is in Kerala. I cannot explain you the delicacy, grace of the Coonor. After Ooty, it is the second highest hill station in the Nilgiri region.

How could I forget to mention about the Athirappilly Falls, it is heaven on earth. People nicknamed it Niagra Falls of India. I also tried the south Indian dance forms which are extremely trendy throughout the world. Bharatanatyam, Kathakali, Kuchipudi these dances are a celebration of life and are symbol of grace, purity and delightful poses.

So I am feeling good to be a part of nature with South India Tour Packages, it gave me an unforgettable journey experience. Nature is calling you, cuisines are ready to serve. Pack your bags and explore the nature.
