Here is a brief combination guide on breeding dragons in Dragon City. Click on each tab to find out the different cute little dragons you can get. If you would like to learn how to get free Dragon City gems with some work, click here. For those who also play Monster Legends, I also made a breeding guide for it.

Hello Dragon City Fanatics! Here is a list of breeding combinations for the various dragons in Dragon City. I didn't include dragons that are not breedable.

List of Terra Dragon Combinations

Terra + Flame = Flaming Rock or Volcano

Terra + Sea = Waterfall or Mud

Terra + Nature = Tropical or Cactus

Terra + Electric = Star or Chameleon

Terra + Ice = Snowflake or Alpine

Terra + Dark = Hedgehog or Venom

Please note that you cannot breed Terra and Dark together for Armadillo dragon.

Opposite Elements

Below is a quick chart from wikia of the opposite elements that cannot be bred directly.

Dragon City Breeding Guide including Dragon City Breeding Guide with list charts and pictures What makes Dragon City so fun it's obviously the many possible combinations of dragons.

Dragon City Habitat New As you can tell from the chart, Flame, Sea, Ice, Nature, Metal, Dark and of course Legendary have decent gold caps.

For example, once you have hatched a dragon, you need to create the appropriate habitat for it to live in, and grow food to manage its ravenous hunger and level it up.

Once you have gotten some rare dragons such as Cool Fire or Soccer Dragon, you will have a chance to breed a new type called the Legendary and later on Pure dragons.

Elements Dragon City Dragon Elements There are 8 basic elements for the dragons in the game.

Food Farm The most efficient way to use your gold to grow food at the beginning is the 30 second dragon bell.

You can combat 3 players every 6 hours, so use it whenever you can! 2) Build a Dragon Stadium and use your dragons to fight in it.

The initial Terra habitat has a low gold cap(500) but the terra dragon has high gold/min earned.

For you to get the dragon you want, without having to test all the possibilities, here is the COMPLETE Dragon City Breeding Guide List and Chart.

As explained earlier, only a few Dragon Eggs are available to purchase from the outset in Dragon City. Others can be unlocked as you progress through the levels, but there are also many which require you to successfully breed two Dragon types to create. A guide to this is below, instructing on which combination of dragons are required to produce certain other types.

The first thing that you need is the parent dragons. For this, you will have to purchase your first egg. Through purchasing eggs, you are able to tick off the Plant, Fire, Earth, Water, Electric, Ice, Metal and Dark Dragons. Some of these require higher levels before you can buy them.

Dragons can start to breed at Level 4. They change their appearance at Level 4 and Level 7. A lot of the fun with Dragon City is about experimenting with different breeds. Although, if you want to avoid ending up with the embarrassing Poo Dragon, you can follow our guide below!

Basic Hybrid Dragons:

Below is a list of other Dragon types that can be produced through breeding some of the basic dragons, categorized by basic dragon type (note that some are repeated - the idea is to provide you with a guide to the various types of Dragon that can be bred by mixing the first specific type with any other

You can also get the Tropical, Blizzard and Star Dragons at 3, 5 and 7 Potions respectively, but these dragons are also available through breeding. Note that each draw in the Spell Game comes with a 6 hour cooldown time, which you can speed up by spending Gems. Every free draw that you take has a low chance of netting you the top prize of a Spell Book/Potion. To give yourself a moderate chance, you have to spend 50,000 Gold, and for a 100 percent chance, 20 Gems. It is very hard, if not impossible, to succeed without spending some gems when the Dragon Potion quest is available (it is time restricted).
