THE SOUTHLANDER CATALOGUE is a trade collective of producers, brokers, freight forwarders and merchants, driven by the values of producer partnership and fair trade in order to better and more effectively engage with retailers and wholesalers worldwide in the selling of premium southamerican products.

We envision becoming true partners in commerce with most, if not all, southamerican premium good producers, while aggressively establishing trade relations with retailers and wholesalers worldwide. Furthermore, become on-line wholesalers and retailers ourselves.

"We are not just a service, or our catalogued products; we are a value driven organization."
- Julio Aguilar - Co-Funder

Premium Quality: our catalog certifies all products as the best of the best through strict quality control of our producer's technical process standards and their final product.

Producer Partnership: our producers are our partners, have access to a direct line of credit when prompted, and receive regular visits by our technicians and technical training staff in order to guarantee their efficient and profitable operation. Having them on our catalogue endorses their operation, while some sell their produce winged under our brand Julio´s Finest; yet, our standards are extremely high when it comes to winging our partner producer´s produce under our exclusive brand.

Fair Trade: timely and fair pay to all our partner producers, ensuring not only their dignified labour but overall wellbeing, by so, becoming true partners in commerce.

Southlander proudly represents literally hundreds of these growers, and delivers to its clients and partners in commerce the most varied offer of fresh cut roses and assorted flower bouquets, overnight everywhere in the world, using the best of the best, as only The Southlander Catalogue could in order to establish itself as the ultimate partner in commerce when it comes to premium South American processed and feedstock products.

-QUINOA: WHOLE GRAIN, FLOUR, FLAKE AND PUFFED-

The Incas thought of quinoa as the 'mother of all grains', and history of quinoa dates back almost 3000-4000 years ago. When the Spanish conquered Central & South America they forbade the cultivation of the seed, which almost saw it, become 'extinct'. Luckily enough quinoa cultivation was restored and is now thriving in many different locations. The plant itself usually grows to about 1-2m tall and has broad, powdery and alternating arranged leaves. Colors of the plant range from purple, green or red. The quinoa fruits usually vary in color from white to red or black.

Quinoa is used as a staple food diet in many South American countries and can be ground down into a flour form, however does not contain any gluten. It is high in protein, has essential vitamins and minerals such as calcium, phosphorus and iron, not to mention the 8 essential amino acids required for good health and repair. This is why many have given quinoa the pseudonym of SUPERFOOD.

Southlander proudly represents literally hundreds of Quinoa growers, and delivers to its clients and partners in commerce the most varied offer of washed quinoa seeds and processed quinoa, using the best of the best, as only The Southlander Catalogue could in order to establish itself as the ultimate partner in commerce when it comes to premium South American premium processed and feedstock products.
