IATA Approved DOG Crates India

- Flight Crates: Most major airlines now require plastic crates such as our IATA approved Flight crates to safely transport animals – especially large animals who cannot travel in the cabin with you.
- When making your travel arrangements, be sure to let your airline know you plan to bring your pet, and ask for details on the styles and sizes of crates they allow.
- These plastic crates are extremely durable and safe – constructed to withstand the rigors of daily use, automobile travel, and airline travel.

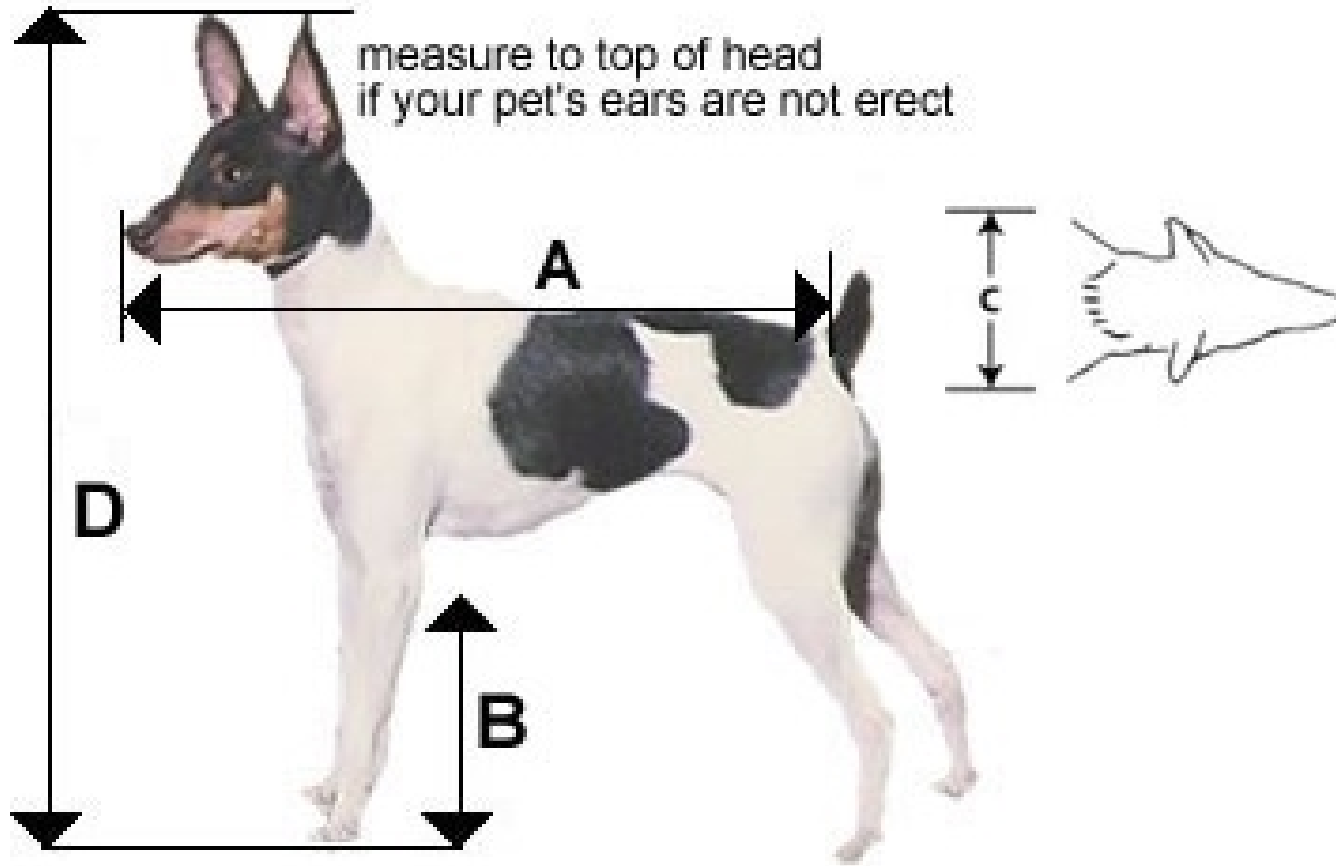

MEASURING YOUR CAT OR DOG FOR A PET CRATE

Get a quality, well built crate for your pet!

Before ordering a crate, we recommend the following:

- 1. Measure your pet accurately using the diagram..
- 2. Use your pet's measurements to select your crate using the chart .. (next slide)
- Measuring a pet can be difficult with a tape measure. We suggest that you use a piece of string, then measure the string after taking the measurement.

How to Measure your Pet

Instructions - Measure Your Pet

- First, measure your dog or cat from tip of nose to base of tail. Do not include any part of the tail in your measurement. This is measurement A.
- Then, measure from the elbow joint in the forearm to the ground. This is measurement B.
- Then measure across your pet's shoulders. This is measurement C.
- Then, when your pet is standing erect, measure from the top of your pet's head to the ground. Add the measurement from the top of the head to the tip of your dog's or cat's ears if the ears are held erect. This is measurement D.

Note – Selecting DOG Crates

- Make sure that your pet can comfortably stand, sit, turn around, and lie down in it.
- As a general rule, when selecting a crate for an adult dog, if you're not sure which size to select, lean toward a larger size.
- Be sure to measure your dog to determine which size crate will be the most comfortable.
