As a child I was lead on a treasure hunt that I will never forget. My father had hidden a map and made sure to “discover” it infront of me like it had been there for years. After a little running around, the map eventually lead us to a spot in the backyard where we dug up a hand made chest just like this one. The treasure, hundreds of pennies and a lesson in how going above and beyond can leave more than just a lasting impression.

Over fifteen years later the chest had re-surfaced whilst helping my parents move. I asked my father if he had created the chest himself but he insisted it was handed down to him and refused to tell the true story of it's origin. Despite being a little warn on the outside the only major interior flaw was some torn lining exposing a piece of parchment just underneath the lid. Turns out the treasure inside wasn't just the hundreds of pennies I had once considered gold.

The parchment was an old secret recipe stolen from ancient Irish monks. These men had perfected a new medicine that later became known as whiskey. The unique mix of these specific ingredients create a one of a kind taste and experience that hasn't been duplicated.

The name of the whiskey is dedicated in to the man who sparked a bigger adventure than either of us could have ever imagined.

Gerard Michael Whiskey Packaging

Based on a true story of my father burying a treasure chest full of pennies for my sixth birthday and my adventure to find it.
I then created a fictional twist to the story and used it to create this brand.
