

The Courthouse... Given the resources available and the importance of the proceedings, it was decided to build it from the exact design and blueprints used for the of the U.S. Supreme Court building in Washington DC.

Queues were long, but everyone was patient. In many ways, and for a long time now, Americans have never been closer.

Americans were also united in their anger: Anger they needed to feel. But anger they also wanted to put behind them so they could move forward.

