TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

After seeing your LinkedIn job offer, and having a look at its opportunities, I felt like I could be the person you are looking for as I meet all the criteria. I am an ambitious individual who is looking to start his career amongst some of the best Software Engineers / Developers out there. Particularly in the field of Artificial Intelligence.

I am keen on learning and finding my way to the top. Even right now in Coventry University, I am on a track for a First-class degree and always striving for extra knowledge, as I am doing Harvard edX studies at the same time and challenging other people in HackerEarth.com. Some of my projects so far have been an interactive Android widget who finds out the upcoming lecture, a 2D game in Unity, a chatbot, that interacts with Google API's to tell the user "The best place to get dinner", or "What's the weather like outside?". And right now, I am managing a group of 5 people and making an old school game with databases and various algorithms like pathfinding.

Joining a start-up company would be very beneficial, as you are always innovating and striving for perfection, not living in the past.

I am applying for a Venture Development Internship preferably for this summer 2018, as I have a gap from university from mid-May till early October.

I am available immediately for an interview so do not hesitate to contact me to arrange the next steps or should you have any questions.
