

Top Five Criteria Sober Homes West Palm Beach

By Behavioral Health Network Resources

The Top Five Criteria for sober homes West Palm Beach is important because even though the new laws fighting patient brokering are helping to weed out bad operators, it is still important to be aware of criteria when seeking sober homes or sober livings. At the same time, there are 5 Legal Things Addiction Professionals Must Know in order not to have serious legal issues. These 5 things do not have a boundary that is only in Florida. Anyone who is referring into Florida from another state faces the same charges as if they were in Florida.

Sober Livings and sober homes play a critical role in the recovery process. Individuals that decide to drive the road to recovery encounter may detours and obstacles that can sidetrack their recovery. While there are many choices of sober livings West Palm Beach, Florida, you'll want to make sure the recovery residence or sober home you choose offers the highest level of care, qualities, features that foster total support for your recovery success and are not operating unethically.

Sober Livings West Palm Beach Recommendations

Below are the "Top Five Criteria Sober Livings West Palm Beach" when picking sober homes or half way houses in West Palm Beach, Florida. However the recommendation to contact the following organizations will help reduce the risks of being in the wrong hands and life-threatening situations. There are three very important organizations that one should contact or meet while in the process of picking sober livings, sober homes or half way houses. These organizations are; Florida State Attorney Sober Home Task Force, Palm Beach County Substance Awareness Coalition (PBCSAC) and Florida Association of Recovery Residences (FARR).

Get to Know Sober Home Task Force, FARR and PBCSAC

The PBCSAC is a collection of ethical treatment centers, government organizations and individuals setting the framework protecting against patient brokering and better treatment for the addiction treatment industry. This organization has many ethical centers, meets every Tuesday from 9:30 am – 12 Noon at 2300 High Ridge Rd, Boynton Beach, FL. (close to West Palm Beach) and you can contact them at 561-374-7627.

FARR, located in the West Palm Beach area is an organization that holds sober livings, sober homes and half way houses at a higher level. They are extremely concerned about patient brokering and high-quality care. They have intense and strict guidelines that sober homes or sober livings must produce and maintain to have FARR certification. FARR works closely with law makers fighting for regulation of sober livings, sober homes and half way houses protecting the many that need sober living in West Palm Beach. However, there is some controversy over the new laws whether the sober homes in West Palm Beach must be FARR certified or not. You can contact FARR at 561-299-0405.

Sober Homes; Be Aware of Patient Brokering when Seeking Sober Livings West Palm Beach or Sober Homes West Palm Beach

When searching on Google sober livings West Palm Beach, or sober homes West Palm Beach or being recommended to a sober living by a treatment center, or individual, you must be careful and cautious before making the decision. These new laws pertain to addiction treatment centers in West Palm Beach. Unfortunately, there are unethical players out there preying on many addicts that are vulnerable, scared and clueless to what is actually happening by letting these scumbags placing them in sober livings, half way houses or drug and alcohol addiction treatment centers.

These situations are serious enough that law enforcement by the Florida Asst. State Attorney, Dave Aronberg have been prosecuting (felonies with long jail sentences) dozens, fighting for addicts and individuals seeking help. The State Attorney's sober home task force has concentrated on protecting against patient brokering. They are responsible for new operational and drug rehab marketing laws for sober homes and drug addiction treatment centers to help protect the vulnerable when seeking treatment. There are five critical and legal aspects all addiction professionals and individuals seeking treatment need to know. The patient brokers may or may not know the legal requirements.

Sober Livings West Palm Beach

These individuals have back-room deals with addiction treatment centers, or several drug rehab centers brokering addicts for $500-$2,500 a head. The addiction treatment centers can gain anywhere from $10,000 – $100,000's of dollars on a single patient. They have deals with many sober homes and sober livings to body broker individuals into shady addiction treatment situations. This is the main reason for this article "Top 5 Criteria Sober Livings West Palm Beach." If you are ever offered money to go into any sober homes, you need to report them to the Sober Homes Task Force toll free tip line at 844-324-5463 and get far away from that individual and centers associated with them.

Anything Free When Seeking Sober Homes Means Danger

While this seems to be a great opportunity to get some much-needed cash, they are placing you in the hands of people that do not care about you, your treatment, your future, or regards to your life. They will talk a great game, be your best friend, connect with you sharing their recovery story, pose as a recovery advocate and make you feel like they can help. However, they only care about the personal monetary gain from placing you and how they can manipulate the insurance to continue to pay for treatment. These entities have been known to allow drug and alcohol use, entice relapse so you go back to a higher level of care, extortion and use tactics to keep you in their hands. It is vital to be aware of this when seeking sober homes.

These situations will put you at high risk for relapse, homelessness and death.

There is much confusion for the sober living operators over the laws regarding regulation of recovery residences. Many operators do not clearly understand what is required from the loosely written regulation with several “loop holes.” These new changes have put much-needed regulation in place to fight the vast, national underground network of patient brokers. When you are on-line typing in sober livings west palm, it would be wise to also call the organizations below to help you make the best possible decision on finding a residence that is safe and fits your individual needs.

The Florida Shuffle is Happening All Across the US

The corruption and unethical practices are widespread, and nationwide. These unethical entities are doing patient brokering, illegal drug testing, enticing to use, and shuffling patients from one center to another to name a few. Due to the irresponsible media, isolating Florida, this is known as the Florida shuffle. Patient brokering is happening all across the US with Florida only accounting for $1 billion dollars of revenue of the $35 billion dollar a year industry. However, it must be said the new Florida model is setting the precedence with the laws that were put into place July 1, 2017. Many other states are now adopting the same laws.

Behavioral Health Network Resources Addiction conferences series addresses critical business and marketing issues. Drug and alcohol addiction treatment centers and sober livings learn proven and ethical strategies providing long-term solutions to addiction treatment centers long-term problem of maintaining a healthy census at these addiction professional events. Our next addiction Executive conference is on 6/27/18. We have invited Florida Healthcare Law Firm to present information on whether FARR certification is necessary or not. This confusing for many operators due to the controversial law. We are working on future events in Florida, Tennessee and California (November 2018.) If you would like to partner on these conferences, get more information, sponsor, or exhibit please contact our CEO, Charles Davis at ceo@behavioralhealthnetworkresources.com.

When you decide to get clean and sober you need to have the best possible level of care in addiction treatment and in a sober living. You are setting up the foundation for your life-long journey of sobriety. When you first decide to start your recovery journey, you are scared, confused and over-whelmed. You must have the confidence that your addiction treatment center and sober home choices give you the necessary tools, highest quality of treatment and assists in your recovery process.

Once you are in treatment at a well-qualified drug and alcohol addiction treatment center that fits your individual needs, you will be basically inside a bubble and exposed to that facilities best options for your treatment plan. While you are in treatment you need to start planning for your second phase which is sober living. Be careful when searching on the web for “sober livings West Palm Beach.”

Again, the choices will be over-whelming and some treatment centers will bait you with ‘FREE Rent’ (this is illegal), free airfare or force you to a facility they recommend. If that facility is shady it is usually owned by the treatment center as a LLC, or DBA, or receiving a kick back from the sober living facility. This is considered patient brokering and is illegal.

Finding the Right Sober Living Homes

Sober living facilities are needed to provide a supporting and pro-active healthy transition, allowing you to leave the safety of rehab and enter a less-restrictive living environment while maintaining a focus on recovery. Residents enjoy a less structured atmosphere while developing the tools and skills to sustain sobriety in the “real world.”

While there are many sober living facilities in Florida, especially sober livings West Palm Beach, you need to make sure the home you choose offers the highest level of care, qualities, and features that support recovery. You should never commit to living at a sober living home without visiting and talking with the owners and residents.

Top 5 Criteria Sober Livings West Palm Beach

#1 FARR Certified Residence

Picking a FARR certified residence is one of the best possible choices because they are regulated with the highest standards currently available for sober homes. This is a critical decision that affects your recovery. You are faced with an overwhelming amount of decisions each day; many affect your sobriety. You need to know the sober living or halfway house has a proven structure to assist and support recovery. That’s why it’s so important to find a sober living home that implements a higher level of care. It should also implement rules and regulations, such as mandated curfews and a zero-tolerance drug-free environment.

#2 Safety

Being in a safe environment is an absolute necessity. Look for things like; 24/7 staff, if the entire staff is trained in CPR, do they have an emergency kit in case of an overdose and is there a protocol for emergencies. What steps and measures do they have to absolutely make sure there are no drugs or alcohol on the premises? Is there a zero tolerance for possession and use of alcohol and drugs? Check out and speak to the people currently living in the sober living facility. Ask them about the technology and safety measures used by the facility.

#3 Connecting Atmosphere

The camaraderie, atmosphere, mood, energy and vibe at the sober living house with its current residents are very important. During your tour ask to speak with the current residents, they will be valuable in your decision to pick the right place for you. What types of activities are there to help you develop new skills, assistance with job search, life skills, better eating habits, health and fitness. Make sure you feel a positive vibe; your gut will tell you if it is the right place for you.

#4 Supports and Assists Recovery

A solid support system is crucial for anyone in recovery. 12 step recovery is not for everyone, however the sober living should have other options on and off the property in place like; relapse prevention, AA, NA and counseling to assist you in recovery. When evaluating a sober living support team, it's important to find a staff that truly cares about you and your success, but you also want a staff that's unafraid to enforce necessary rules and regulations.

Everyone's recovery path is different and it proceeds at different paces, however individualized recovery plans are essential for staying sober. The employees should be professional and be there to keep you on the road to recovery. They should be encouraging 12 steps, AA, NA meetings or a support system that fosters sobriety. There should also be some sort of drug testing policy in effect.

#5 Take Responsibility; Own It

Remember, you must own your sobriety. That means that you may not always like following rules and regulations like a curfew, structured events, meetings, etc. You must be willing to do the difficult things to maintain sobriety. The sober living home should challenge you to be able to make steps to be fully functional on your own.

You can be confident that if the sober living is certified by FARR that the above are addressed completely by the sober living facility.

Stay Dedicated to Your Drug and Alcohol Addiction Recovery Journey

The purpose of this article "Top Five Criteria Sober Livings West Palm Beach" is to make you aware of some things to look for when seeking a sober living. The more research you do, the better your chances of finding an ethical recovery residence. It would be wise to contact the Sober Homes Task Force, FARR, or the PBCSAC to vet any sober homes.

For many people, the most difficult aspect of an addiction recovery program is remaining clean and sober after the inpatient program ends. In fact, according to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, 40 to 60 percent of drug addicts revert to drug abuse after rehab. For some drugs, the statistics are even more grim, with relapse rates for drugs such as opiates approaching 85 percent in some studies. The reasons for this vary, but the most common factor is a lack of preparation for the outside world. Recovering addicts are caught off guard by triggers from which they were protected during treatment, such as drug-abusing friends, old party hangouts and the stress of everyday life.

We'd love to hear what you have to say about patient brokering, leave a remark below.