

-Gerrit

[/QUOTE]

Q.I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

A. Correct. It doesn't even come close to what actually gets displayed. Sometimes I go to great lengths to get something to look just the way I want a post look and PREVIEW looks good then when actually posted, all that junk on the right totally screws up the whole perfectly arranged post. It's all about wrapped lines I think but not sure. I'll give you an example with screenshots showing what I might want this answer to look like, then show you how it gets butchered. I think I can anyway. I'll need some ordered or unordered lists to show worst case but even regular paragraphs will show how things get messed up due to almost half the screen used to something other than thread or post content. And yes, I'm rambling just so I can demonstrate. Got to have ordinary long sentences in order to demonstrate. As in mixed lengths of short and long lines of text. Especially for the ordered lists. Those can demonstrate how PREVIEW and what is actually displayed can be drastically different depending on length of sentence, And whatever rambling there might be. I'll also try to highlight things by changing colors. So "light mode" will be what is typed. "Dark Mode" will be what Preview displays. And my changed dark mode with be what actually is displayed.

Preview

Post reply

Recommended Reading

Read More →

Preview

mo admin said: ↻

I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

Reports are for unwanted content, and keeping it as such means that there is less work for site staff like yourself to sort through. As for reporting problems, the best and fastest way for us to get working on it is doing more than letting us know it is broken. Tell us what happened when you ran into the problem, tell us how you'd like the feature to function, tell us what you're not seeing. That way we can best direct you to a missing feature, or develop the feature ourselves. There's more than one way to bake a cake, and I want to ensure that

Click to expand...

Q.I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

A. Correct. It doesn't even come close to what actually gets displayed. Sometimes I go to great lengths to get something to look just the way I want a post look and PREVIEW looks good then when actually posted, all that junk on the right totally screws up the whole perfectly arranged post. It's all about wrapped lines I think but not sure. I'll give you an example with screenshots showing what I might want this answer to look like, then show you how it gets butchered. I think I can anyway. I'll need some ordered or unordered lists to show worst case but even regular paragraphs will show how things get messed up due to almost half the screen used to something other than thread or post content. And yes, I'm rambling just so I can demonstrate. Got to have ordinary long sentences in order to demonstrate. As in mixed lengths of short and long lines of text. Especially for the ordered lists. Those can demonstrate how PREVIEW and what is actually displayed can be drastically different depending on length of sentence, And whatever rambling there might be. I'll also try to highlight things by changing colors. So "light mode" will be what is typed. "Dark Mode" will be what Preview displays. And my changed dark mode with be what actually is displayed.

Preview

Post reply

ACCREDITED
BUSINESS

GDPR
COMPLIANT

#195 • a moment ago

New

ACCREDITED
BUSINESS

GDPR COMPLIANT

mo admin said:

I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

Reports are for unwanted content, and keeping it as such means that there is less work for site staff like yourself to sort through.

As for reporting problems, the best and fastest way for us to get working on it is doing more than letting us know it is broken. Tell us what happened when you ran into the problem, tell us how you'd like the feature to function, tell us what you're not seeing. That way Click to expand! direct you to a missing feature, or develop the

Q. I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

A. Correct. It doesn't even come close to what actually gets displayed. Sometimes I go to great lengths to get something to look just the way I want a post look and PREVIEW looks good then when actually posted, all that junk on the right totally screws up the whole perfectly arranged post. It's all about wrapped lines I think but not sure. I'll give you an example with screenshots showing what I might want this answer to look like, then show you how it gets butchered. I think I can anyway. I'll need some ordered or unordered lists to show worst case but even regular paragraphs will show how things get messed up due to almost half the screen used to something other than thread or post content. And yes, I'm rambling just so I can demonstrate. Got to have ordinary long sentences in order to demonstrate. As in mixed lengths of short and long lines of text. Especially for the ordered lists. Those can demonstrate how PREVIEW and what is actually displayed can be drastically different depending on length of sentence, And whatever rambling there might be. I'll also try to highlight things by changing colors. So "light mode" will be what is typed. "Dark Mode" will be what Preview displays. And my changed dark mode will be what actually is displayed.

[/QUOTE]

Q.I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

A. Correct. It doesn't even come close to what actually gets displayed. Sometimes I go to great lengths to get something to look just the way I want a post look.

And PREVIEW looks good then when actually posted, all that junk on the right totally screws up the whole perfectly arranged post.

- It's all about wrapped lines I think but not sure.
- I'll give you an example with screenshots showing what I might want this answer to look like, then show you how it gets butchered.
- I think I can anyway. I'll need some ordered or unordered lists to show worst case but even regular paragraphs will show how things get messed up due to almost half the screen used to something other than thread or post content.

1. And yes, I'm rambling just so I can demonstrate. Got to have ordinary long sentences in order to demonstrate. As in mixed lengths of short and long lines of text.

2. Especially for the ordered lists. Those can demonstrate how PREVIEW and what is actually displayed can be drastically different depending on length of sentence. And whatever rambling there might be. I'll also try to highlight things by changing colors.

So "light mode" will be what is typed. "Dark Mode" will be what Preview displays. And my changed dark mode will be what actually is displayed.

Preview

Post reply

ACCREDITED
BUSINESS

GDPR COMPLIANT

mo admin said: ↻

I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

Q. I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

A. Correct. It doesn't even come close to what actually gets displayed. Sometimes I go to great lengths to get something to look just the way I want a post look.

And PREVIEW looks good then when actually posted, all that junk on the right totally screws up the whole perfectly arranged post.

- It's all about wrapped lines I think but not sure.
  - I'll give you an example with screenshots showing what I might want this answer to look like, then show you how it gets butchered.
  - I think I can anyway. I'll need some ordered or unordered lists to show worst case but even regular paragraphs will show how things get messed up due to almost half the screen used to something other than thread or post content.
1. And yes, I'm rambling just so I can demonstrate. Got to have ordinary long sentences in order to demonstrate. As in mixed lengths of short and long lines of text.
  2. Especially for the ordered lists. Those can demonstrate how PREVIEW and what is actually displayed can be drastically different depending on length of sentence. And whatever rambling there might be. I'll also try to highlight things by changing colors.

So "light mode" will be what is typed. "Dark Mode" will be what Preview displays. And my changed dark mode will be what actually is displayed.

ACCREDITED
BUSINESS

GDPR COMPLIANT

Save

Preview

Cancel

#196 • a moment ago (Edited)

New

mo admin said: ☺

I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

hogcowboy

American Legion Rider

Joined Jun 1, 2011

18,452 Posts

Q.I assume you've used the "Preview" option, are you finding that that's not WYSIWYG?

A. Correct. It doesn't even come close to what actually gets displayed. Sometimes I go to great lengths to get something to look just the way I want a post look.

And PREVIEW looks good then when actually posted, all that junk on the right totally screws up the whole perfectly arranged post.

- It's all about wrapped lines I think but not sure.
  - I'll give you an example with screenshots showing what I might want this answer to look like, then show you how it gets butchered.
  - I think I can anyway. I'll need some ordered or unordered lists to show worst case but even regular paragraphs will show how things get messed up due to almost half the screen used to something other than thread or post content.
1. And yes, I'm rambling just so I can demonstrate. Got to have ordinary long sentences in order to demonstrate. As in mixed lengths of short and long lines of text.
  2. Especially for the ordered lists. Those can demonstrate how PREVIEW and what is actually displayed can be drastically different depending on length of sentence. And whatever rambling there might be. I'll also try to highlight things by changing colors.

So "light mode" will be what is typed. "Dark Mode" will be what Preview displays. And my changed dark mode will be what actually is displayed.

